President's Message

Hi All

Once again, I begin my report with the loss of another member of our club. David Crowe-Owen passed away on the 30th of December 2022. His knowledge and expertise was greatly appreciated, especially by the engine committee.

Our condolences to David's family.

Having mentioned the engine committee, a big thanks to them all for the time they are putting in now that Cheeseworld is up and running again. They are great ambassadors for our club. Also, we wish Kelvin a swift recovery following his op.

The Lake Pertobe show on Sunday the 8th, I thought went very well. My personal thanks to all those who helped in any way toward its success. You all made the day the success I believe it was. A big thanks to Falcon Traffic for the loan of the bollards and Victoria at Warrnambool City Council for her guidance and the use of the bunting. Just a small knuckle rap from Council. Some shades and gazebos were pegged down and this is banned in the area because of underground watering systems. Next year please all use weights eg sandbags to hold our shades in place.

Don't forget the Australia Day breakfast at Ellerslie on Thursday 26th January from 8:30 am and the General Meeting the next night Friday 27th January 7:30.

Cheers

Bryan O'Meara
Club President.

Christmas Party

About 40 turned up for the Club's Christmas party at the Clubrooms on December 4th. It was a hot day for us in Warrnambool at over 30 degrees but a nice atmosphere inside. The Club provided salads and sweets and soft drinks, and it was BYO for meat with the BBQ going outside. Thanks to Karen Carter and her helpers who did the salads and sweets. A nice relaxing time was had. I had difficulty getting the attention of members to take the photo except for the Treasurer who always pays close attention to all proceedings including financial ones!

Guest Speaker for January 27th General Meeting

Everyone is welcome!

The poster features a woman on the left with a speech bubble saying "I didn't know the warning signs" and a man on the right with a speech bubble saying "I thought it was just indigestion". The central text reads "Your Heart Matters" and "Would you know what to do?". Below this, it says "Join us for a Heart Matters information session What you learn could save your life". The event details are "Where and When WDHVC Clubrooms January 27th at 7:30 pm All welcome". A list of learning objectives includes recognizing warning signs, knowing what to do, and reducing risk. Logos for Heart Foundation and Ambulance Victoria are at the bottom.

- Reduce your risk of having a heart attack

I thought it was just indigestion

Heart Matters is a joint project, saving lives through community education

Heart Foundation Ambulance Victoria

We have a guest speaker arranged for the general meeting on January 27th. Donna Koik is the Heart Matters Coordinator for Warrnambool. She will speak to us for about 30 minutes about recognising and responding to heart attack warning signs.

Heart Matters is a partnership project with Heart Foundation, Ambulance Victoria and Monash University that aims to save lives through community education about the warning signs of heart attack, what to do if you or someone close to you has those warning signs, and how to reduce your risk of having a heart attack.

The Warrnambool community is known to be at high risk of heart attack, we have low heart health knowledge, and often don't call an Ambulance when we should. Heart Matters wants to change those statistics – we want to save lives. We want our community members to recognise and respond quickly to heart attack warning signs, and to know and manage their risk of having a heart attack.

Donna is a Warrnambool Community member who joined this project because she knows the Heart Matters message will save lives in our community. She is also an active volunteer with the St John Ambulance, Warrnambool Division, Teacher, Trainer, and Assessor within this community.

November 27th Club Run to CheeseWorld Museum

The Club run was to the CheeseWorld Museum and thanks to Kelvin Boyle and Chiz for opening the museum and starting the Ruston for us. While the museum was open a few members of the public also took the opportunity to walk in. After the museum we went over to the Rae collection. By the time we were closing it was nearly 3 pm and too late to go to the Freckled Duck in Allansford which closed at 3pm. Another time maybe. Chiz was in his hi viz shirt and keen to be most visible in both photos.

Many W&DHVC members may not be aware that the club played a considerable role in returning a railway turntable to Warrnambool. Norman Houghton’s recently published excellent book To Warrnambool Stopping all Stations, indicates a turntable was installed in 1890 when rail reached Warrnambool and was extensively used literally every day to turn steam locomotives around to undertake a return journey to Melbourne or position engines within the once busy railyard. However, the Warrnambool Standard of 12 October 1915 states “Yesterday the ponderous parts of a new railway turntable arrived at Warrnambool to be erected on the site of the present turntable, near the local engine sheds. (i.e., near the present concrete batching site well west of the station). The turntable is built to accommodate the large AA express engines which will shortly be employed running regularly on the line between Melbourne and Port Fairy,” With the introduction of diesel engines in the 1970’s, which could be driven from either end, there was no longer the need for a turntable and Warrnambool’s was sold, presumably for scrap metal, and removed. In the late 1980’s a small but determined group of civic minded train enthusiasts embraced on a major project the likes of which had rarely before been seen in in Australia. They planned to move a 25-tonne locomotive turntable from Mornington to Warrnambool where it would be restored to enable historic steam trains to once again grace the Melbourne – Warrnambool line. The turntable was donated by Steamrail Victoria but not before Mornington suddenly realised what they were losing and fought a battle to retain it. At 21.3 metres long and weighing 25 tonnes, the turntable needed two cranes to lower it to its temporary resting place. The W&DHVC was one of a number of community groups involved in the $30,000 project. Considerable earth and concrete work were required in the positioning of the turntable in its new position. Jack Brittain and Ray Farley, along with other early members of the club were closely involved in many facets of the project and the club can deservedly be considered a significant contributor to what was achieved.

The turntable was officially “christened” on April 7, 1990, to coincide with the opening of the Warrnambool – Melbourne train line centenary celebrations. Things did not go smoothly though as after the Mayor, Toni McCormack, cracked a bottle of pink champagne over an engine’s nose, the manual “driven” turntable refused to budge! After about an hour of fruitless efforts to get it moving, the engine was driven off the turntable the way it steamed on to run two 40-minute joyride trips west to Dennington. After the two Dennington journeys, the strength of a council machine and a winch were brought in to lend support and so the stage was set for the engine to head off down the right track for the return trip to Melbourne.

The Warrnambool Standard reported that “Engineer and volunteer worker Jack Brittain said he was disappointed the event did not go off unhitched.” The turntable is now listed as a Warrnambool City Council asset, leased to Victrack, and has proved its worth many times since installation with steam train tourist trips now a regular occurrence, particularly under the watchful eye of Allansford local and Steamrail Victoria stalwart Eddie White (on the right). It is recorded though that at times it has had to be “encouraged” to do its job despite a having a small motor installed in 2004 to drive it.
